Re: Disability Exemptions

Dear Dean Cahill:

I am writing on my behalf of my peers who wish to sign on to respectfully ask the Brooklyn Law School (BLS) Administration, to update their COVID-19 vaccination medical exemption policy for the 2022-2023 academic year to include disability exemptions. For purposes of this petition, the assumption is that the vaccination requirement at BLS will continue, and this petition does not question the vaccination requirement; instead this petition challenges the BLS medical exemption policy as being too narrow, and in turn fails to protect students with mental and/or physical disabilities who are medically unable to receive the vaccine and/or booster. By not affording an exemption to these students with disabilities, some students with disabilities are being segregated from the BLS community.

From the outset it is important to note that as of February 7, 2022, the Center for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) is no longer encouraging a fully vaccinated campus.<sup>1</sup> In addition for public and private universities who choose to continue to have vaccination requirements, the CDC allows discretion in terms of the medical exemption policy a public or private institution chooses to adopt.<sup>2</sup> Many public and private institutions, including the top fourteen law schools (T14 schools), have medical exemption policies that generally follow the contraindication standard,<sup>3</sup> which is a "condition in a recipient that increases the risk for a serious adverse reaction to vaccination and should therefore not be administered."<sup>4</sup> The problem is that the contraindication standard is so narrow that students with disabilities whose doctors advise against the COVID-19 in their professional opinion, based on a mental or physical disability, are not approved for the medical exemption. For example, two students at BLS who applied for a medical exemption in the 2021-2022 academic year were denied a medical exemption for failing to meet the contraindication standard. Brianna Baker '22 had a physical disability that prevented her from receiving the vaccine. Both of their stories are included in this petition.<sup>5</sup>

However, the University of California Berkeley (UC-Berkeley), which is one of the T14 schools, poses the solution. UC-Berkeley not only follows the contraindication standard, but also has a disability exemption that applies when a "registered physician certifies that the student has a physical or mental disability that makes COVID vaccination inadvisable in their professional opinion either on a temporary or permanent basis."<sup>6</sup> Students afforded a disability exemption under UC-Berkeley policy would then follow the same reasonable accommodations afforded to other students with exemptions such as mandated weekly testing, social distancing, and mask requirements. The disability exemption policy is only afforded in attenuated circumstances where a doctor advises, in their professional opinion, that the COVID-19 vaccine is inadvisable due to a specific medical reason.

In closing, with a new academic year upon us, we have to decide as a community how we want to go forward. As a community, we should lead the way in efforts towards inclusion of all students whether it be based on national origin, race, color, religion, sex, and familial status, or in this instance disability. Law schools have a special obligation to lead this effort for inclusion because law schools influence the policy decisions of other institutions of higher education so they should have a heightened awareness of the importance of protecting students with disabilities.

Therefore, we respectfully request that Brooklyn Law School update their policy by expanding the medical exemption criteria beyond the contraindication standard to consider disability exemptions to the COVID-19 vaccination requirement similar to UC-Berkeley. With an approved disability exemption, these students should still be subject to mandated testing, and mask requirements as the exemption policy clearly outlines. Enclosed is a copy of UC-Berkeley's medical/disability exemption form.<sup>7</sup> Additional remarks from Brooklyn Law School Disability Advocacy Law Students' Association (DALSA) and other students are made part of this petition as well.<sup>8</sup> We appreciate all that the law school has done to support students during the COVID-19 pandemic, and look forward to a great academic year as one inclusive community. We are happy to discuss with the Administration further.

Exhibit B: Medical Exemption Denials

Brianna Baker '22:

Brianna Baker '22, was diagnosed with Kawasaki's Disease as infant, which is a condition that causes inflammation in the walls of a person's blood vessels.<sup>9</sup> Due to the fact that her heart arteries are too small, she regularly suffers from heart palpitations and a low heart rate, and she is required to receive EKG's to monitor her heart functioning. As a result to her condition, her doctor advised that she is at high risk for aneurysms, myocarditis, and heart attacks. Her doctor deemed the COVID-19 vaccine inadvisable, and provided a letter and medical records to Brooklyn Law School to substantiate her medical exemption request. Brooklyn Law School denied her medical exemption, and so Brianna was forced to visit at Liberty University in Virginia for the Fall 2021 to complete her degree and had to forgo opportunities including participating in Moot Court Honor Society, Researching Assistant with various Professors, Tort Law Society, Teaching Assistant with Professor Twerski, Student Advising for SAMP, among other professional opportunities in the New York Metropolitan area. In addition, she suffered financial hardship where she accrued $15,000 of relocation fees, and lost her scholarship of $35,000.

Caraline Mikkelsen '23

Caraline Mikkelsen '23 lost her older brother to Schizophrenia in 2016. The tragic circumstances surrounding his passing including him being transferred by helicopter across states lines, along with seeing her brother in a coma on life support machines has had long term psychological trauma. She underwent neuropsychological testing and was diagnosed with Tomophobia, a specific phobia of medications and medical procedures. In addition, she was diagnosed with Post Traumatic Stress Disorder, and other related anxiety disorders. Her neuropsychologist advised that the circumstances surrounding receiving the vaccination would exacerbate her psychiatric conditions, and she should undergo psychiatric treatment before reconsidering vaccination. Her doctor provided a letter and medical records to Brooklyn Law School to substantiate her medical exemption request. Brooklyn Law School denied her medical exemption.

Cara is going into her fourth year in the evening program, and works full time to finance her education with over $100,000 in student loan debt. As a self-supporting law student with over $100,000 in student loan debt already, an unwanted transfer to another institution would cause substantial financial hardship and would risk her not completing her legal education. Given the constraints of the New York Bar Requirements surrounding in person-learning, she is unable to continue online learning at another institution while continuing her job in Brooklyn, NY. She wants to stay at her current law firm who has offered her an attorney position that she plans to accept. In addition, her firm has a robust mental health law practice representing clients with mental illness, and their families as they navigate our complex mental health and legal systems. She wants to use her law degree to help other families in ways she wished her family could have had.

DALSA Executive Board

The Brooklyn Law School Disability Advocacy Law Students' Association (DALSA) wholeheartedly agrees with the message and demands of this letter and petition. For the law school to leave out students with significant disabilities from a medical exemption to the vaccine mandate goes against medical and legal standards and is an act of ableism and discrimination. As an organization that holds the needs of immunocompromised people high in our priorities, we have appreciated all the measures and precautions the school has taken to control the spread of Covid-19 and protect the law school community. But blocking access to education for a small number of students with disabilities who have been told by their doctors to not be vaccinated is not a legitimate method of disease control. It is an act of segregation of people with disabilities. While we wish for a continuation of a general vaccine mandate in the school, DALSA urges the school to reconsider the vaccine exemption policy and allow all students with disabilities access to a high-quality, safe, in-person legal education. – DALSA Executive Board

Denise Elliot '23

I am a student that would like to do disability rights law in the future. I have seen many people in my internships and other pro bono work with different disabilities who are more vulnerable to either the effects of Covid or the vaccine (depending on the disability). My mother was diagnosed with aplastic anemia in my first semester of law school and I ended up quitting my full time job to help out more at home with her doctor's appointments and helping with my brother who is autistic. Part of my mom's treatment included an experimental treatment where she received T-cells and she had to take immunosuppressant drugs. During the pandemic we were very scared she would get Covid and would be especially vulnerable. Thankfully, by the time the vaccine came out she was off the immunosuppressant drugs and her doctor recommended she get the vaccine. Not everyone with a disability is as lucky as my mom or brother to be able to get approval from their doctor for the vaccine, even now. For Cara, I feel her struggle deeply with receiving the vaccine and I think she is very brave putting this together and fighting for herself and other students with disabilities. Whether or not you agree with the choice not to get the vaccine, I hope the Administration can support this petition, because this allows the opportunity for students with disabilities who cannot get the vaccine or who may have been vaccinated but cannot get the booster due to medical reasons, to attend our law school. I hope by sharing this personal story of mine, it can provide context for a subset of people with disabilities who are unable to access the vaccine due to compromised immune systems or autism.

I just wanted to reach out – I signed the petition you emailed! I think what you are doing is really impactful and I wish I had someone to ask for support earlier in the Fall my 1L year. I had a rough time dealing with our administration as I had a compromised immune system, dealing with an autoimmune disorder. I'm doing okay now but I know I was not in a good spot earlier my 1L year. I did feel pressured and since I didn't think anyone else was in a spot like mine, I complied with the vaccine for the fear of losing my spot in the school. Still though, I agree that in cases of exemption BLS should take us seriously. I felt very unsupported by our administration.
